MOST IMPORTANT

NEXT SUNDAY EVENING, beginning at 7:30 all our people are asked to gather in the church parlors to see the picture, "Like A Mighty Army", a picture produced by the Laymen's League of our Church. What can we do to get everyone to attend? Talk about it with fellow members; invite and urge them to come. Call members in your area of the city and remind them. Following the picture showing, offering envelopes for 1950 will be distributed, and pledge cards filled out. COME !

THE FLOWERS on the Altar today are provided by the Ladies Guild in honor of Mrs. A. Handel, a long time helper in the women's work of our church.

WHO MATTERS IN STEWARDSHIP?

"We hope that each family will place this picture in the home as an inspiration for all members to live as His disciples."

That suggestion appears in a folder which will go into thousands of homes this fall. Produced by the Lutheran Laymen's Movement of our church, the folder contains a striking new portrait of Christ, strong and powerful yet full of compassion, painted by Louis Jambor.

The message accompanying the portrait strikes one central note—It is Christ who matters in stewardship. How necessary it is that we remember, day by day, and week by week, throughout the year, that stewardship is living our whole lives as disciples of Jesus.

If the 500,000 homes of the United Lutheran Church can be reminded of that truth every day by the picture of the Master hanging somewhere in those homes, new victories can be won by our church in every field where His work is to be done.

The portrait and folder idea was born out of the suggestion of a layman. Norman Fenske, of St. Paul's Church, Oswego, N. Y., was disturbed by the attitude of many church people he called upon during the Every Member Visit. They acted as if they were giving as a favor to some individuals.

"Mr. Fenske believes," his pastor wrote, "that if the Every Member Visit workers carried a picture of Christ with them into homes and placed it in a position so that all could see it during the discussion, church members would understand more clearly that they are giving for His work."

The Laymen's Movement agreed. But it decided to go still further. Why not furnish a picture of the Christ for every home? The opportunity came to use the Jambor portrait. Soon most homes of our church will have one of these beautiful prints. With it goes the compelling reminder:

"It is Christ who matters in stewardship."
